Terms of Reference for Consultancy Services for an Evaluation of Optimal Strategies for Counties Engagement in Blood Management

Background

Blood transfusion is a lifesaving intervention and an essential part of healthcare delivery. An insufficient or unsafe blood supply for transfusion has a negative impact on the effectiveness of key health services and programmes. Transplantation is an expensive, resource-intensive medical technology, which requires heavy investments in health system capacities.

The 2010 Kenya constitution enshrined a devolved government system that had health as devolved function to counties. The Transition Authority unbundled the Health functions and Blood management remained a function of National Government in line with the World Health Assembly (WHA) Resolution 63/12, requiring a Coordinated National Blood Service to which Kenya is a signatory. However, the act of blood transfusion to patients is done in hospitals that are under the management of County governments and hence are the primary consumers of blood and transplantation of human derived products. This makes the act of blood Transfusion a County function, thus making it necessary to develop shared functions approach for effective and seamless donation, processing, storing, distribution and transfusion of blood and blood products.

Within this context is the recognition that:

- a) Blood is a national resource that can be allocated and distributed anywhere across the country regardless of where it is collected in order to promote equity and save lives
- b) Blood has been identified as an essential service under the Universal Health Coverage package of care and essential health product in the Essential Medicines List
- c) The organizational structure of health care delivery between the National Government and County Government is governed by various legal statutes such as Health Act; implementation arrangements (the Inter-governmental

Health Forum) and; agreements such as (the Inter-governmental partnership agreements)

It is important to note that Counties are already opening and managing county and owned satellites, although there has no strategic approach to the coordination of these blood establishments in line with existing legislation and policy.

Further, the KNBTS notes the need for re-engineering its business model to:

- a) Rapidly expand blood collection points as critical to increasing blood collections and availing blood closer to patients
- b) Decentralize blood collection by positioning the KNBTS as a 'strategic purchaser' of blood as opposed to 'the primary collector' of blood, thus facilitating set up of blood collection establishments by Counties and the private sector

Therefore, the KNBTS needs to become strategic about its engagement with Counties to build a blood management system that is efficient, seamless and sustainable across Kenya and is aligned with legal, financing and operational frameworks, structures and processes of National and County Governments.

Proposed Scope Of The Consultancy:

The purpose of this consultancy is to develop a strategy that the KNBTS will use in engaging County Governments in order to ensure optimal and seamless blood supply chain. This will include the following:

1. A review of legal and operational framework of health services in Kenya and how blood services management could be best operationalized, taking cognizance of the requirement for a National Coordinated Blood Service.
2. Review the health financing framework of National and County Governments and make recommendations towards financing of blood services across the 2 levels of Government
3. Engage with Council of Governors on existing bottle necks and opportunities to ensuring availability and access of donation, transfusion and transplantation of derived therapeutic products to counties
4. Engage purposively selected County leaderships to gain insights that will be key to the recommended strategies to be developed.
5. Detail challenges and opportunities for KNBTS in engaging with Counties to achieve a seamless supply of safe and sufficient blood and blood products.
6. Conduct SWOT and PESTEL analysis on engagement of KNBTTTS with counties on matters of donation and transfusion.

Expected Tasks:

In response to this tender, the Consultancy firm is expected to:

1. Prepare and provide a detailed methodology of how the consultant will achieve the above scope, including expected working timelines
2. Provide the CV of the lead consultant
3. Submit a budget and indicate utilization of the funds

Expected Output:

The consultant will be expected to submit a detailed report with clear recommendations on optimal strategies for the KNBTS to engage Counties for sufficient, sustained blood supply.

1. The report will provide recommendations on:
  - a. Strategies to be adopted by KNBTS in engagement with Counties
  - b. An implementation framework with planned activities and suggested timelines
  - c. Recommendation on the best financing models for donation, transfusion of blood and blood products at the county levels that need to be adopted
  - d. County, inter-county, National and Global partnerships that can be explored to strengthen availability of safe, adequate blood
2. The report will identify any possible lacuna in law and policy that may require attention
3. The report will be specific in detailing the structures that the NBTS may need to leverage in this proposed engagement
4. The report will make recommendations for sustainable resource mobilization for blood services
5. The report will outline potential partnerships intra, inter County; County-National-Global levels for a seamless supply of safe and sufficient blood and blood products

The Client agrees to pay the Consultant according to a schedule of payments linked to the delivery of certain outputs, usually reports. Lump-sum contracts have the simplicity of administration, the Client having only to be satisfied with the outputs without monitoring the staff inputs and should be used for large Assignments in for example Design; Engineering; Supervision and Management Services; Master plans; Economic and Feasibility studies; and Surveys.
2. The Contract includes four parts: Form of Contract, the General Conditions of Contract, the Special Conditions of Contract and the Appendices. The Client using this standard contract should not alter the General Conditions. Any adjustment to meet any specific project features should be made only in the Special Conditions.
